

Bone Growth

All bones are formed from _____, except the clavicle and some parts of the cranium (skull). Bones begin to grow _____ children are _____, and as growth takes place the _____, which forms their temporary skeleton, is _____ into _____ by the addition of _____ and other _____. Bone growth begins in the _____ of each bone. In a long bone this is in the centre of the _____.

Growth takes place _____, _____ and around the central marrow _____, then secondary _____ appears at both ends. _____ remains between the areas until bone growth is completed. These areas are known as _____. This process of development from _____ to _____ is known as _____.